Kemin Health wins top weight management award

Barcelona, Spain - Kemin Health's revolutionary weight management ingredient Slendesta®, wins top award in Europe.

At Ingredientes Adelgazantes España 2008, the conference's only award, "Most Innovative Slimming Ingredient," was presented to Isabel Farinha, Kemin Health Global Marketing Manager. The conference held October 2nd and 3rd, brought together leading international experts in the field of weight management, including academics, researchers, dietary supplement manufacturers and food and beverage producers.

According to Farinha, "receiving this award is recognition of the innovative properties of Kemin Health's new ingredient. It opens a wealth of opportunities for Slendesta, not only in Spain, but all over the world. For many, this will be the first glimpse of Slendesta's amazing potential as a health ingredient."

Derived from white potatoes, one of the world's safest and most commonly consumed foods, Slendesta is a natural satiety ingredient, ideal for use in dietary supplements, as well as conventional foods and beverages. It promotes a satisfied feeling by increasing the body's release of a natural hunger-suppressing substance known as CCK.

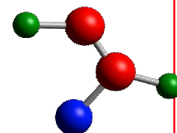

Because feeling hungry is one of the toughest hurdles dieters face, this breakthrough can help them achieve weight loss and maintenance goals they might never have thought possible. In fact, clinical trials demonstrate that taking Slendesta as directed results in significant weight loss and reductions in waist and hip measurements.
